

Report on Documentary Screening on World Civilizations

Date: 27 December 2025

The Department of History successfully organized a documentary screening for students on 27th December 2025, focusing on the theme “World Civilizations: Origin, Growth, and Decline.” The programme was organized with the objective of enhancing students’ understanding of the historical evolution of major world civilizations from ancient times to the present.

The documentary provided a comprehensive overview of prominent civilizations of the world, highlighting where and when different civilizations originated, how they developed and eventual decline. It covered important civilizations such as the Mesopotamian, Egyptian, Indus Valley, Chinese, Greek, Roman, and other significant civilizations, enabling students to understand the continuity and change in human history.

The screening was attended by undergraduate students of the History Department, who showed keen interest throughout the programme. The visual presentation helped students grasp complex historical processes in an engaging and effective manner, supplementing their classroom learning.

After the documentary, Astd. Prof. Sharmila Nalwa, Head of the Department of History, addressed the students and shared valuable insights related to the topic. She also emphasized how lessons from the rise and decline of past civilizations remain relevant in understanding contemporary societies.

The programme concluded with an interactive discussion, during which students raised questions and shared their observations. Overall, the documentary screening proved to be informative, thought-provoking, and academically enriching, contributing significantly to the students’ understanding of world history.
